

Dear Customers & Business Associates,

It is my pleasure to share with all of you that with effect from 1 February 2007, Groupe Silicomp and all its Subsidiaries are officially owned by France Telecom.

The company has since then been grouped under France Telecom's renowned brand name, Orange Business Services, so as to provide a common corporate identity to our services. Accordingly, from this date onwards, the company will use its Orange Business Services logo in all its communications.

Nevertheless, Silicomp Asia Pte Ltd will continue to exist as a legal entity. All existing and future contracts will continue to be governed by the same name (Silicomp Asia Pte Ltd). The company structure remains unchanged and continues to be led by Mr Malcolm Ong, Mr Eric Lim and Ms Shobha Ganesan as the Management Representatives of the company. At the same time, our office address remains the same.

The Groupe Silicomp's acquisition is in line with Orange Business Services' strategy to provide dedicated convergent communications solutions and services for businesses and develop its position in this market.

As Barbara Dalibard, Executive Director, Orange Business Services explains: "this acquisition will dovetail with Orange Business Services' integration services offering for business networks and critical communications applications, drawing on Silicomp's expertise on key technologies. This will enable Orange Business Services to further strengthen its position, confirming it as one of the leading French players for integrated communications services".

For Silicomp, "this acquisition marks a major step forward in the Silicomp Group's strategy on the convergent solutions market. Joining one of the world's leading groups like France Telecom will enable us to consolidate our presence with our clients and provide them with complete solutions, capitalizing on the global reach of Orange Business Services", confirms Jean Michel Gliner, Chairman of the Silicomp Group.

This marks a new beginning for Silicomp under the umbrella of Orange Business Services. We look forward to serve you better and would like to thank you for your continued support.

In the meantime, we would appreciate if you could note this change in your record and pass this on to your relevant departments.

Yours sincerely,

Malcolm Ong
Managing Director
